Bringing National Conference to Saskatchewan for 2026

The Saskatchewan Broadband Action Committee (SBAC) hopes to start conversations around rural connectivity and digital adoption at Canadian Rural and Remote Broadband Community (CRRBC) Conference this coming fall in Saskatoon.

In its continual response to Saskatchewan's 'digital divide', the Saskatchewan Broadband Action Committee is working alongside CRRBC to bring their annual conference in Saskatchewan in November 2026.

Committee Co-Chairs Laurel Feltin and Jean-Marc Nadeau are looking forward to the conference. "We are excited to welcome the conference to Saskatchewan, a province where expanding broadband connectivity remains a critical priority," says Laurel Feltin, SARM Executive Director. "We are optimistic that the technologies and strategies showcased here will contribute meaningful solutions for extending broadband access and helping to connect the remaining last-mile communities."

Jean-Marc Nadeau, CEO of SUMA commented: "We aim to ensure every individual and business in every Saskatchewan community, no matter how remote, has the communications infrastructure they need now and in the future. Municipal leaders in Saskatchewan are eager for the opportunity to connect with industry leaders and policymakers to share strategies for expanding rural broadband access."

The Saskatchewan Broadband Action Committee (SBAC) is a cross-sector and community-based group of provincial, local, and Indigenous organizations, networks, and service providers.

Formed through a shared and collective concern over the issues and lost opportunities for all citizens related to broadband connectivity across the province, we're committed to achieving broadband infrastructure parity for all Saskatchewan residents, regardless of location.
